Zann Huang

She wanted to illustrate the separation of the genders over thousands of photos and being female, she felt she had no choice but to break the norm. As a female traveler, she also wanted to tell the story of the world from her own unique perspective. Sometimes, she said, she has been accused of being too brazen. Sometimes, she said, she has been accused of being too plain. Sometimes, she said, she has been accused of being too different. Sometimes, she said, she has been accused of being too normal.

She said that it is important to showcase one’s perspective and one’s talent, no matter how small it may be. She said that it is important to showcase one’s perspective and one’s talent, no matter how small it may be. She said that it is important to showcase one’s perspective and one’s talent, no matter how small it may be.

Derek Sivers

What is it? That was the question posed by the entrepreneur. He asked hundreds of the audience to fill in the blanks, sharing some insights along the way. He encouraged them to share their insights, no matter how small they may be. He encouraged them to share their insights, no matter how small they may be. He encouraged them to share their insights, no matter how small they may be.

Myshkin Ingawale

He and his team of five “geeks” at Bioneo Technologies, a biotechnology company in India, invented a non-invasive device for detecting anemia. Called Touchb, this affordable and mobile device was presented to the audience.

“We worked with experts in the field and then tested it on open platforms like Wikipedia to design our next prototypes,” he said. He said that there were more than 100 scientists working in the field and that they are all connected, and happy to do their part to make the world a better place.

This easy access to brilliant minds in the field contributed to Bioneo’s growth over the past three years.

“Sometimes,” he said, “there is a sense of isolation and loneliness when you work on these projects. It’s important to remember that you are not alone.”

Kevin Mark Low

Kevin Mark Low is a spoken-word poet who was featured in last year’s TEDxKL. He is known for his ability to bring passion and energy to his performances.

“One must make the distinction between form and content,” he said. “There is a need to reinvent the wheel.”

He said that the audience was encouraged to think critically and to question assumptions. He said that the audience was encouraged to think critically and to question assumptions. He said that the audience was encouraged to think critically and to question assumptions.

Ille Gebeshuber

Ille Gebeshuber is a designer and speaker who is known for his unique and innovative approach to design. He is known for his ability to bring passion and energy to his performances.

“Let’s not forget the power of design,” he said. “It has the ability to change our world.”

He said that the audience was encouraged to think critically and to question assumptions. He said that the audience was encouraged to think critically and to question assumptions. He said that the audience was encouraged to think critically and to question assumptions.